Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho), likely a letter or document. The text is written on a strip of paper with significant damage and staining, particularly along the right edge and in the center. The characters are dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive nature and the condition of the paper. The text appears to be a personal communication or a formal document from the Edo or Meiji periods.

Handwritten text on the left side of the strip, possibly a date or a signature. The characters are more legible than the main body of text.
